The Judgment The majority judgment of the will was within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Rabbinical Courts, according to Section 83(1) of the Order in Council, 1922.

The Judgment The majority judgment of the Special Tribunal was dalieved by Justice Landau, Justice Agranst concurring.

At the outset, Justice Landau, Justice Agranst concurring.

At the outset, Justice Landau Sustice Agranst concurring to the precedent laid down in S.T.1/49 (P.D. 7/1037), but concluded that seither English is wor Ottoman law provided a solution to the problem which must therefore be found in the terrise of the Succession Ordinance for some purpose of the Succession Ordinance with Sections 13 and 14 Justice Landau held that, while confirmation of a will, including confirmation of the Succession Ordinance by Jerusalem artists. of supervision of the execution of the will and not as part of the confirmation of the will,
and did not therefore fall with in the exclusive jurisdiction of the Rabbinical courta.

Justice Landau then dealt with Dr. Vardi's argument that the appointment of an Administrator must be regarded as a necessary ancilliary to the confirmation of a will just as the question of the custody of children of a separated couple is regarded as ancilliary to divorce proceedings. The justice held that while, according to English law, it was probable that probate of a will and the appointment of an administrator were inseparably connected,
this was not the case in juvish law which did not necessarily demand the appointment of an administrator, since the heirs generally executed the terms of the will themselves. Therefore, since it was possible to confirm a will without the necessity of having an administrator,
the appointment of the latter could not be regarded as a necessary adjunct to the former and therefore within the exclusive jurisdiction or the religious courts.

Justice Landau then went on to dismiss the alternative contention proferred by Dr. Vardi to the effect that the Rabbinical Courts and at least paralei jurisdiction, and since the meany left by the decessed was tion of the Soviet Ambassador's credentials, "All Hamishmar" (Mansam) expresses the hope that Russia will change its stand on the light of free passage through Sues for Israel shipping. The paper says that Roviet policy will support Israel as long as this country does not enter agreements with the Western powers, quoting the Polish Consul's declaracion of centinused sympathy with the movement of Jewish social and national liberation in Israel.

"Davar" (Histadrat) notes that the Soviet Ambassador to Israel personally has contributed not a little to the improvement in the relation between the two countries. The paper welcomes the "Isvestia" denial of a "Tas" report on Western bases in Israel: such retractions are very infrequent indeed, and the denial is the more appreciated in view of the fact that the Soviet Press has frequently published false news on Israel in the peat Surprised at the support accorded the Arab governments against Israel in the Security Council, "Davar" hopes that Soviet policy will change in this respect as well.

which also publishes the "Investia" denial, chooses this as its first occasion to question a news

"Zmanim" (Progressive) comments on the news about the Jordan and Saud's reported willingness to cover the expenses of the Arab Legion. These reports tend to strengthen the impression that the U.S. wishes to inherit the British position in Amman just as in Abadan and Israel should exploit the impending disintegration of his kingdom, it also draws attention to

"Habokse" (General Zionist)
welcomes the visit of Rav-Aluf

that the reception given was in

"Ha'areta" (Independent) says that Mapai refuctance to accept the principle of the four per cent clause in Knesset representation is apparently based on considerations that are not only ideological. The paper thinks that the decision should be left to the voters, who — it assumes — favour fewer parties.

the human liver to cure cancer, and the liver soon grows back again.

The successful pioneering of this new way to combat one kind of cancer was described recently by Dr. George T. Pack of Memorial Hospital, New York, at the sixth International Cancer Congress here.

Simultaneously, Dr. Joseph Gillman of Johannesburg told of a key to discovering the prevention of liver cancer. The key is the fact that 50% of all fatal cancers among the native Bants gold workers at the Witwatersrand mines are cancers which start in the liver. Something lacking in their diet — perhaps a quart of milk deliy or the B vitamins — may be the cause of this geographical tragedy, Dr. Gillman said.

First Patient is Well

Dr. Pack gave this description of removing the whole right lobe of the liver, accounting for 12% to 80% of the organ:

The first of six such operations was done two years ago on a man who is living and well today. The cancer had started in the right lobe which had been thought impossible to remove due to its size. But in such operations the left lobe immediately begins regenerating and expanding until the liver is nearly the original size. New surgical technique made removal of the right lobe possible.

Liver cancer occurrence is high in most of Africa. If the Bantus move to the cities, liver cancer decreases, but stomach

Little Triangle More Prosperous

The existence of military governorship in the "Little Triangle' is no longer the major concern of its 34,000 Moslem inhabitants. Suweileh Mansour, chairman of the Tirah village Local Council, told a group of correspondents on Tuesday, touring minority areas in the country on the ocasion of Id el Adha.

While only two years ago the severe travel restrictions were the main daily concern of the villagers, the recently introduced largescale easing of restrictions has caused it to become a secondary problem, Mansour declared.

It was understood that the number of permanent (sixmonth) travel permits for "Triangie" villagers has been increased up to 800% and is expected to reach 2,000 soon in addition to theusands of temporary permits issued every month. The general standard-of-living and the economic prosperity among the Israel Arab farmers have improved greatly during the last few years. This year was an exceptionally prosperous one for farmers. Mansour stated. The major problems facing the harabs are those concerning compensation for requisitioned land, and the renewing and enlarging of the family reunion scheme between Israel and Jordan, the Chairman of the Council stated.

An ever-increasing number of "Triangie" youths (there is now one complete secondary school

The book revives again the atrocites committed by the Germans throughout occupied Europe during the last war. It pinpoints civilian massacres in the Warnaw ghetto, Lidice and Oradur, experiments on prisoners in concentration camps and records the horror of Buchenwald, Auschwitz and Belsen.

The Foreign Office is believed to contend that publication of the book would be embarrasing to Britain when the Government plans to rearm Germany. In his letter to the author, Lord Simonds said, The whole treatment of the subject and most particularly the photographs are such as to stir up hate of the German people as a whole and therefore to give support to the opinions of those who are most strongly critical of the policy of giving Germany an opportunity by rearmament or otherwise of exerting an influence in world affairs."

Thus the evacuation of the Suez Canal zone by the British is hailed as such a victory for the State Department since it is said to have paved the way for the diminution of Egyptian opposition to any Parab participation in the creation of a "deeply based bastion against Communist expansion" The idea is developed.

A similar consideration applies to Iraq. While the State Department congratulates itself on its obtaining a foothold in that country, the British on the other hand are seriously concerned with the safety of their well established position there and the growth of an ambitious xenophobia greatly stimulated by Egypt's success in removing them from Suez. The advent of America in the area is more likely than not to hasten the day when the Iraqis will call down a plague upon both houses. Iraq after all has been receiving arms now for many years but this has never made against Egypt. Most interesting of all, however, is the specific threat at the conclusion of the Newweck' article in question, larael is told not to force the United States into making a choice between herself and the Arabs as "world strategy in the present era would necessarily dictate the sacrifice of Israel" in that case.

The American people is not likely to think the cause of democracy would be well served should the effort to contain Communism result in serious damage to Israel which alone is pioneering a constructive alternative to the poverty of the Middle East.

Tis estraordinary that Mr. Rolinach, of all people, should turn the policy has been a proposed in the propect of the Middle East.

vere to be provided with accommodation, the number of existing workers' holiday centres would have to be multiplied by four.

In Beigium, out of 47,000 prooms in the hotel trade, 4,000 beds are available for what is called "social tourist traffic" (i.e. local working 'folk'). To this should be added 4,000 beds provided by workers' camps and homes. Over a summer period of eight weeks, that gives 44,000 beds per week—for about 600,000 families, or over two-and-a-half million persons, entitled to holiday, with pay.

Timing Leave

One remedy is to extend the holiday season. Carnivals, beach facilities and entertainments would have to be extended over a longer period as well. When we spent the last week of April in Nahariya, the bottom of the swimming-pool was being scrubbed and empty beach shops were being painted. Much depends upon the timing of the children's school holidays, and little can be done to stagger them.
